

Abstract

An encapsulation for an electrical device is disclosed. The encapsulation comprises plastic substrates which are laminated onto the surface of the electrical device. The use of laminated plastics is particularly useful for flexible electrical devices such as organic LEDs.